Unicorp National Development, Inc. Hires Amy Young as Director of Leasing

ORLANDO, FL— As part of Unicorp National Development's aggressive growth strategy the company recently hired Amy Young to head up its comprehensive leasing initiatives.

Young will serve as director of leasing and is responsible for heading up efforts to lease Unicorp's key projects such as Baldwin Park Village Center and Grande Plaza as well as oversee marketing efforts for all Unicorp's planned and existing retail centers.

"Our plans for growth dictated that we develop this new position and fill it with a proven professional," said President Chuck Whittall. "Amy's experience and knowledge of the marketplace made her our first choice."

Previously, Young served as Senior Associate for Trammell Crow Company, achieving unprecedented results handling landlord representation for institutional and local developers, marketing and leasing a portfolio of over 1.5 million square feet. She was recently awarded "2003 Overall Top Retail Producer" by the Central Florida Commercial Real Estate Society for grossing over $13.4 million.

Young is actively involved in ICSC, serving as co-chairperson of the Next Generation Orlando Program and is also a member of the Urban Land Institute, and the Central Florida Real Estate Society.

Unicorp National Developments, Inc. has played a key role in development of retail space for over eight years in Florida, New York and Arizona. Unicorp is the largest developer of Eckerd Drug Stores in the nation. The company's portfolio consists of over 50 commercial properties, including shopping centers and stand alone retail shops. Unicorp National Development is the developer of The Fountains at Bay Hill; Water Tower Place at Celebration; Baldwin Park Village Center, Grande Plaza and many other high profile retail centers in the Central Florida area.
